Teen Parenting Network

- The Teen Parenting Network assists in teen parents succeeding in life. Due to the fact that they help the clients in setting goals for the future. At every meeting we discuss our goals and our progress, which is extremely helpful. The Teen Parenting Network helped me make decisions on my own about education, jobs, and other life skills. This method of help is much more sufficient than a program that breathes down your neck. It teaches me to branch out on my own and make positive decisions. The Teen Parenting Network is a comfortable network; they only show us our positives, and never nag at the negatives. The Teen Parenting helped me get back onto school which is helping me have a better life.
- At each visit I get curriculum about my son's age group, with this I am able to play games with him that will help him develop and learn. I am able to see what he should be able to do, and be sure to catch any delays if they were present. The curriculum and the advocates answer a lot of parenting, education, social behavior questions
- The Teen Parenting Network is a bridge to other resources in the community. They help us navigate the system. The Teen Parenting Network is a prevention service, and without their help a lot of the clients would need many other services now and in the future. They do a very positive thing for the community present, past, and future and it would be a shame to cut off such a wonderful resource. The Teen Parenting Network does not only help the teen parents but it help their children and it will have a positive effect now and in the future.
